

HEAVY TAXES ARE DROPPED BY THE STATE

State Board Of Assessment Decides On Amount Of State Tax To Be Collected.

FOR REALTY AND SCHOOL TAX ONLY

Means That State Expects To Be Able To Meet All Its Indebtedness Easily With Cash On Hand.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—The Wisconsin taxpayers are called upon to pay only the school taxes and $157,000 interest on state indebtedness this year. All the authorized taxes to build the new capitol and carry the running expenses of the government, including the appropriations made by the last legislature, were remitted today by Governor Davidson, Secretary of State Frear and State Treasurer Dahl, comprising the state board of assessment. This means that the state tax in reality will be $157,000, the amount of interest on state debts, while about $1,300,000 is levied and collected for schools, this money is distributed back to the counties on the basis of the school population.

BUSINESS SHOW IN GOTHAM FOR 2 WEEKS

Matters of Interest to Business Men Constitute Show to Be Held Next Fortnight.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Oct. 12.—Madison Square Garden has sold out a more interesting exhibition than the National Business Show, which opens there tonight for a run of two weeks. As its name implies the show is devoted to the display of furniture, machinery, labor-saving devices, office fixtures and other things of special interest to the business man. A number of time and labor saving devices for business uses that have never before been seen are included among the exhibits. Price concessions for the rapid and efficient use of typewriters, adding machines and other adjuncts of the modern office and counting room will be a feature of the show.

LOCAL LACONTON.

Fred Rice Sexton: The trustees of Oak Hill Cemetery association have appointed Fred Rice as superintendent of Oak Hill in place of Robert Scott, resigned, to take effect Nov. 1st. Mr. Sexton has been employed by the Cemetery Association for several years past.

F. & A. M.: Regular communication of Janesville Lodge No. 55, F. & A. M., at Masonic Temple next Monday evening. Work in M. M. degree. Reports from members. Twenty members of the Milton Junction lodge are expected to be present. All brethren invited.

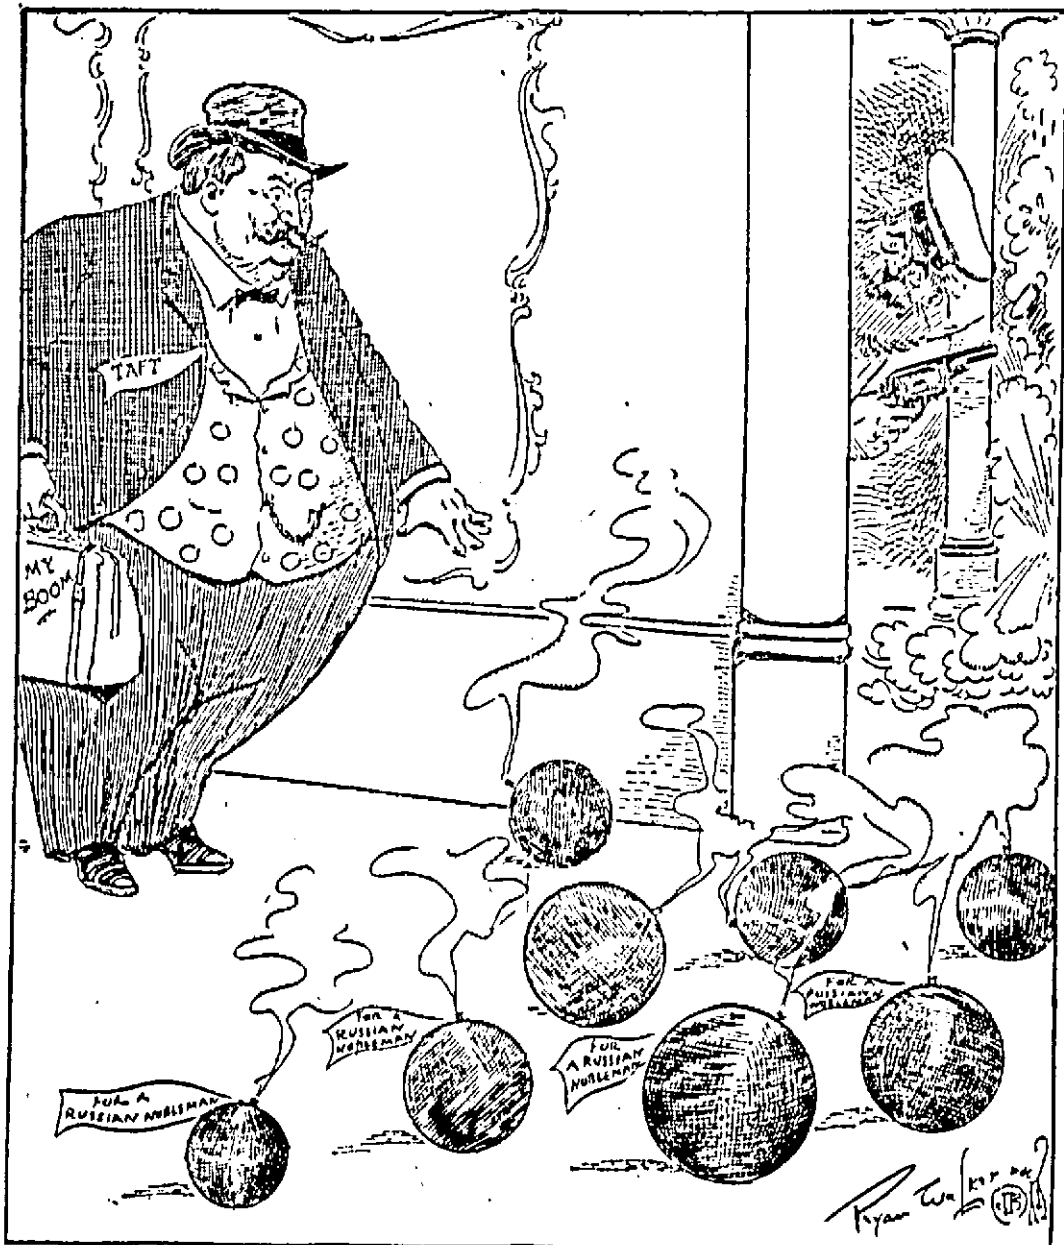

Second of Series: On Sunday evening at the Congregational church Mr. Denison will give the second of a number of sermons on men whose lives have helped to make modern progress. This address is on Charles Dickens who knew so well by experience and observation, the life of the plain people of his day and who did so much to help make the heart of his age tender. Dickens is perhaps the most popular of all modern novelists and well deserves his place in the hearts of the people.

Mae Frye Has Reformed: Miss Mae Frye, the young woman from the Girls' Industrial school at Milwaukee who testified here in the Dugan trial this week, tells the District Attorney that she has joined the church and looks upon her wayward former life with deep regret. She was arrested at Dousman, Waukesha county, under the name of Mrs. Mary Baker early last May on the charge of stealing $50 worth of wearing apparel belonging to a domestic in the Metcalf hotel. When confronted by her mother, Mrs. Susan E. Dickens, in the jail at Waukesha she swore that "she never saw that woman before in all her life." She is sixteen years of age now and is to remain at the school until she is eighteen. Undersecretary George Appleby took her back to Milwaukee yesterday.

Mrs. Kimberley Hurt: Mrs. E. O. Kimberley tripped on a stairway while attending the D. A. R. reception this week and so badly sprained both ankles that she is still on crutches and confined to her home.

Steel Furniture Installed: $2,300 worth of steel desks, roll-in shelves, and other furniture from the Art Metal Construction Co. is being installed in the office of Register of Deeds Charles Wolfel at the court house. Judge Sule's county court room is also being rearranged and the long wooden table and several other pieces of furniture taken out of the register's office are being installed there.

Colored Man Inmate: Henry Cowan, the colored man who cooked the sheep at the English barbecue last summer, was taken into custody at Beloit yesterday on the suspicion that he was mentally unbalanced. He was examined, found to be insane, and brought to the county jail. Sheriff Fisher expected to take him to Mendota this afternoon.

A PLEASANT PROSPECTS. The czar has commanded that Secretary Taft be treated as a Russian nobleman when he arrives in Russia. —News Item.

BOULDER TAKES OFF MAN'S LEG CLEANLY

Logger Suffers Severe Accident in Dynamite Explosion—He Will Recover. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Rib Lake, Wis., Oct. 12.—In one of the most shocking accidents in the history of loggers, Henry Schaefer lost a leg, not through his carelessness, but through the carelessness of others. A dynamite charge threw a 200-pound boulder at Schaefer, one of the dynamite crew, and struck him in the right leg, tearing it from the body as clean as if a knife had been used. He was hurled to Rib Lake nine miles on a handcar.

EUCARIST LEAGUE MEETS IN AMERICA

Great Meeting of Catholic Dignitaries to Be Held in Pittsburgh Next Week. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12.—No event in the history of the Roman Catholic Church in the United States has ever brought together so many prelates, cardinals and members of the hierarchy as the international eucharistic congress, which will open tomorrow with solemn religious services in St. Paul's cathedral in this city. The congress will continue three days.

Representatives will be in attendance from all over the United States, Canada and Europe. Bishop Maes of Covington, Ky., who is the head of the Eucharistic League in the United States, will preside and the special guest of honor will be Cardinal Vannoy, who represents the personal representative of Pope Pius X.

The central idea of the Roman Catholic church is in the eucharist, the living presence of Christ in the bread and wine on the altar. The eucharist is one of the seven sacraments of the church, and the most important. Out of it have grown the ritual, music, architecture of the church, and many peculiarities of Christian social life among Catholics.

The eucharistic leagues are formed in nearly every Roman Catholic church in the world, banding together the faithful of the parish in an organization whose object is to venerate God in the eucharist. The eucharist league among the laity is the stopping stone to the eucharist congress of the clergy.

These leagues of the eucharist began in the middle of the last century. Their object and that of the congress in which they meet is to systematize public and private devotions, Pius IX, and Leo XIII, were champions of the movement in their time, and Pius X has given the eucharist league of Rome his personal attention.

CELEBRATE LANDING OF COLUMBUS TODAY

Wisconsin Councils of Knights of Columbus Recognize Anniversary Columbus' Landing. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—Wisconsin councils of the Knights of Columbus are today and tomorrow celebrating the 415th anniversary of the landing of Christopher Columbus on American shores. Formal observance of the anniversary, which falls on Oct. 12, will be made in Catholic churches throughout the state tomorrow. High mass will be said.

MILITIA LOSES TWO VETERAN CAPTAINS

Reedsburg and Fond du Lac National Guard Companies to Resign after Long Service. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Reedsburg, Wis., Oct. 12.—The Wisconsin National Guard will lose two captains this month. W. A. Wyse, commander of Co. B, Third regiment, of this city, and William J. Seavey of Co. 12, the crack organization of the state, of Fond du Lac. Capt. Wyse served in the Civil war, and the Spanish-American conflict saw him in active service again. Capt. Seavey saw service in Porto Rico and is probably the most efficient commander in the entire national guard of the United States.

BEER IS TO BE IN VOGUE BY GOING UP IN PRICE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—The wholesale price of beer in Milwaukee will be advanced. This advance will be followed by a decrease in the price of the glasses in the retail stores and eating down of quantity sold in growlers. A prominent Milwaukee brewer said that the brewers were in about the same position as the owners of penny newspapers and it is inevitable that the wholesale price of beer must be advanced and not only in Milwaukee but throughout the country.

HAULS RECORD LOAD OF "SPUDS" TO TOWN

Bloomer, Wis., Farmer Hauls 134 Bushels of Potatoes to Town in One Load. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Bloomer, Wis., Oct. 12.—Frank Duganitz now holds the record for hauling the largest load of potatoes to market. Mr. Duganitz' load was 134 bushels, which brought 35 cents a bushel. Frank Kressch won the prize for the largest load two years ago. His record was 125 bushels.

STOUGHTON MAN IS ASSIGNED TO OHIO

Charles W. Cross, Son of Hub's Editor, Will Take His Place on Big Battleship. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Stoughton, Wis., Oct. 12.—Midshipman Charles W. Cross, son of C. W. Cross, editor of the Daily Hub, is now at Brooklyn, awaiting orders for the battleship Ohio, to which he has been assigned. Mr. Cross made a great record at Annapolis, which his native state is proud to recognize. Lieut. Robert Westcott of Appleton is on his way home from the Philippines. He is visiting Europe, having been granted a four-month leave of absence from his command.

In Memory of Riot Victims, Mount Olive, Ill., Oct. 12.—The ninth annual memorial demonstration in honor of the four Mt. Olive boys who gave up their lives in the strike held here today. The demonstration was attended by delegations of miners from many of the neighboring towns.

CURES LOCK JAW ON HORSE; GOOD TEST

Kaukauna Physician Cures Dreadful Disease in His Driving Horse. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Kaukauna, Wis., Oct. 12.—Can lock-jaw, the terror of man and beast, be successfully cured? Dr. J. Quinlan of this city has proven that a cure is possible, in case of a horse. His valuable driving horse ran a mile in its foot six weeks ago. After treatment of two weeks, the horse has been pronounced cured and is again in condition for usual work.

MICHIGAN GIRL WEDS ENGLISH DIPLOMAT

Daughter of late Senator McMillan of Michigan Marries Minister Plenipotentiary. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., Oct. 12.—Miss Amy McMillan, daughter of the late United States Senator James McMillan of Michigan, became the bride today of Sir John Harrington, who is the British Minister Plenipotentiary in Abyssinia. The ceremony took place at Eagle Head, the McMillan summer home here. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties were in attendance. Among the few guests outside the members of the two families was the Baroness von Kettler, whose husband was killed by the boxers during the siege of Peking. The Baroness is one of the most intimate friends of the McMillan family.

The bride of today has been prominently identified with society both in Detroit and Washington. She was a member of the famous Taft party that went to the Philippines. During Mr. Choate's term as ambassador at London, Miss McMillan spent a season there under Mrs. Choate's chaperonage. In her debutante days Miss McMillan belonged to the same circle of young women as the Baroness von Kettler and at the latter's marriage she was attended as maid of honor by Miss McMillan.

Sir John Harrington enjoys the distinction of being the only envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary in the service of the British crown who has risen to that eminence from the ranks of the army. He was knighted three years ago by King Edward and invested with a commander's ship of the Victorian order.

He was in attendance on His Majesty, special envoy from Ethiopia to England, on the occasion of the king's coronation in 1902. The following year he was made minister plenipotentiary to the Emperor Menelik. He has received the last class of the Star of Ethiopia and is a major in the Indian army.

MONUMENT TO SOLDIERS AND SAILORS UNVEILED TODAY

Impressive Ceremonies At Jefferson Held Today When Shaft To Veterans Erected By Subscription, Was Unveiled.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Jefferson, Wis., Oct. 12.—Impressive, yet pathetic scenes marked the unveiling this afternoon of the Jefferson county soldiers' and sailors' monument in Court House park here. The beautiful pile of marble and granite cost $5,000 and was given to the county by public subscription. Following the invocation by Dr. E. L. Eaton, Oscar P. Roessler, chairman of the monument committee, formally presented the shaft to the county. Ex-Gov. Hoard accepted on behalf of the county, and Miss Marjorie Lane, a direct descendant of a Revolutionary soldier, unveiled the monument. Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago delivered an oration in behalf of the G. A. R. This was followed by an address by Col. J. A. Watrous, Senator E. T. Fulford spoke in behalf of the Sons of Veterans. Department Commander J. C. Martin of the G. A. R. delivered an address and the Co. H of Port Atkinson fired a salute. Tonight a campfire will be held at the courthouse, and Mayor John W. Pomeroy of Jefferson and County Judge Charles B. Rogers will speak.

STERN OLD ALDERMEN WHO OBJECT TO SPOONY PEOPLE

Place Light On Corner Of University Sorority House Court To Annoyance Of Fair Maidens.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—In spite of the protests of four Greek letter societies of the University of Wisconsin against the placing of an electric arc light in front of their houses, the Madison board of aldermen last night ordered that such a light be placed in the obnoxious position to shed brightness upon the sorority porches from dusk until midnight. Residents petitioned the ward aldermen to cause a light to be placed where it would light up Sterling Court, across from the co-ed dormitory, Chadbourne hall. On this court are situated the chapter houses of the Alpha Phi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Gamma Phi Beta and Kappa Gamma Gamma sororities, and a united protest was entered against the light, which would make the porches and entries of the Greek letter houses as light as day. The girls gave as the reason for their protest that the light would interfere with little gatherings which they are accustomed to hold on their large verandas in the evenings of spring and fall, when the nights are cool and entertaining on the porches is delightful. These places, the girls said, are not dark, but are illumined with the softened rays of dimly shaded incandescents, but if a great arc light were established the porches would be conspicuous for long distances and be rendered useless for purposes of informal entertainment. However, the hard-hearted aldermen refused to listen to these persuasive suggestions and the light was ordered.

MARKET SMASHES ON TWENTY-ONE DROWN NEAR DEER PARK

New York Stock Exchange Goes Wild Over Tip On the Harriman Railroad. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The stock market went to pieces this morning on a rumor that Harriman had announced a decided reduction on all his roads. All stock tumbled down like ten pins nearly equalling the panic of last March. Despite the fact Harriman announced that the rumor was groundless the stock did not rally considerably and closed panicky and weak.

TO TELL ROOSEVELT ALL ABOUT ALASKA

Man On His Way To Washington To Discuss Situation With President. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 12.—Thomas Gale, a representative from Alaska, who is visiting his family here, says that he will suggest to President Roosevelt a territorial form of government for Alaska. Mr. Gale is going to Washington on a special request made by the president. He says that congress does not wish to be unjust or unfair but is ignorant of what is needed in Alaska and that is why we do not receive better treatment.

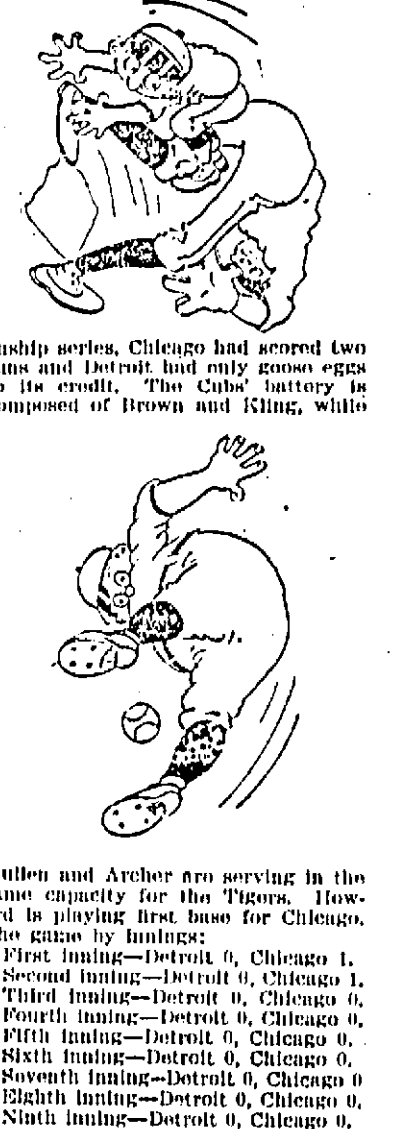

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT; DIES FROM WOUNDS

Twelve Year Old Boy Dies From Injuries Received While Out Hunting. [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Delavan, Wis., Oct. 12.—Burr Blakeman, twelve year old son of Harry Blakeman, was accidentally shot while hunting in a corn field this morning. He died soon after. The trigger of the shot gun caught on a corn stalk and the bullet entered the side of the face blowing off the lower part of the jaw.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12.—Joseph Warder, forty-eight years old and a cripple, committed suicide early this morning in the store of Geo. S. Ehrns. Warder borrowed five cents from a man and purchased a pint of beer into which he emptied a bottle of carbolic acid.

Irving-Erhardt Wedding. New York, Oct. 12.—A wedding of note today was that of Miss Antoinette B. Erhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Benedict Erhardt, and Louis Du Pont Irving, son of Alexander Du Pont Irving, of Irvington-on-the-Hudson. The ceremony was performed at the country home of the bride's parents in Westchester county. Mr. Irving is a grand-nephew of the late Washington Irving, and his home is the old Washington Irving homestead, Sunnyside.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

"I have boundless ambition, indeed."

"I am poor, but I'm honest and young."

From the ladder's mere foot I'll succeed

In attaining the uppermost rung.

"I shall work like the veriest slave;

Nor a moment of time will I waste;

Nor indulge in the things that I crave

And for which I've a natural taste.

"I have said to all comfort adieu;

I'll be rich if it takes me a leg;

I will make me no friends but the few

Who are likely to boost me a peg.

"If my honesty stands in my way,

I shall brush it aside like a stray,

Only caring—because it will pay—

To keep on the right side of the law.

"Do not say that you hear me with path.

You won't think that merits rebuke

When you think of the prize I may gain—

That my daughter may marry a

Duke."

The Chicago News recently published

this little poem, which so well describes the man whose sole and only ambition is to get rich. Not the man who inherits fortune, or who comes

into it suddenly, as the result of successful speculation, but the man who

commences in early life to plan for

it and whose every ambition is bent on accomplishment.

The man who overcomes obstacles,

sacrifices pleasure, comfort and principles, if necessary, to win the goal.

He may not be a miser, but every dollar spent is an investment, and spent

for a purpose.

This class of men are criticised

more freely, and envied and hated

more generously, than any class of men, in the community, not because they are worse than many other people, but because they have succeeded,

where many have failed.

The desire to have money, is a universal desire, and the ambition to spend it about as fast as it puts in an appearance, is a widespread ambition.

The average man is not a money

worshiper. If he were he would establish a shrine, and pay homage to the God of gold. He wants money, not to hoard, but to spend, and after years of earning and spending, the fact

dawns upon him that he is destitute,

while his more frugal neighbor has abundance.

Then the spirit of envy possesses

him, and the doctrine of socialism appeals to him. He begins to feel that in some way he has not had an equal chance.

This feeling is not confined to men

with moderate income, but is shared

by men with liberal salaries, who spend every dollar as fast as earned.

Much is said, nowadays, about class

distinction and the line which separates the rich and poor. A great deal of false sentiment has developed in the discussion of this question, because an effort has been made to divide people into two classes, the very rich, and very poor, while the fact is apparent that between these two extremes is the great army of well-to-do people, who make up the majority of population in this land of equal opportunity.

The money kings of America are

but a handful of men, while the poor

element, which wear the title

without disgrace, is found in the poor-houses.

It is true that a liberal fringe of

society is living close to the line of dependence, but barring accident or misfortune, there is nothing lacking

but ambition and disposition to prevent their entering the ranks of comfortable and well-to-do people.

The last census revealed the gratifying fact that 52 per cent of the voting population of this country are

real estate taxpayers, while half the balance were accumulating personal property in savings banks and life insurance companies.

These figures represent the rank and file of American citizenship, and should silence for all time the discussion of class distinction.

The chasm which separates the very rich and the pauper poor is so wide

that it is seldom explored.

One class represents thrift and prosperity, the other destitution, and more or less shiftlessness. Close to the edge of this latter class, however, is a liberal constituency of able-bodied people who live from hand to mouth, and who never possess a dollar long enough to establish a clear title.

From this contingency, added by a sprinkling of people not satisfied with

average prosperity, comes the spirit of

anarchy, to which the agitator and

self-satisfied reformer appeals most effectively.

The names of labor agitators and

theoretical reformers, never grace the pages of a tax roll. These men are so busy exploiting grievances and con-

doling with "God's patient poor," that they have no time to devote to accumulation of property.

But the man absorbed in making

money, for the sole purpose of possessing it, is not the only idolater abroad in the land. It is as natural for the heart to worship something, as it is to breathe, and so it happens that every soul has its altar where homage

is paid and worship demanded.

It may be the symbol of wood or

stone, which commands the respect and adoration of the soul in Southern

darkness, and which is worshipped

with zealous devotion to satisfy the demands of a God-given conscience.

If so, the worshiper is infinitely better off than his brother in a Christian land, so absorbed in the worship

of self, that the God of selfishness

reigns supreme.

The heathen are not all turned loose and running at large, beyond the seas. Enlightened Christendom has its full quota, and free America is well represented.

The lowest type of idolatry is found in the latest fields, and under the most benighted skies. Conscience, so long unheeded, has ceased to be a silent voice, and his satanic majesty

rules without a rival.

Passion and appetite are in control,

and the hard lines of the face and lu-

less eye, indicate that habit has in-

grasp on the life which no human power can release.

These are victims of the God of selfishness and they are found in every community.

A much larger class worship at the shrine of pleasure, forgetful of every

sacred obligation, while others sacrifice health and money to gratify an ambition for fame, which, when acquired, is as fleeting as time itself.

The man who makes a god of money, may be subject to criticism, but

too many of us live in glass houses

to make a bombardment of stones desirable.

INFORMATION WANTED

Many a sacrifice sale could be made

a profit sale, if goods were intelligently

advertised with fresh and reasonable. The man who waits until January, to close out a stock which should have been sold in October and November, is not a good businessman.

The time to sell winter goods, of every description, is before the holidays. The man who waits a better or a string of bells, buys before the first of January, or not at all. There may be a good run of sleighing for two months after that date, but he waits until another winter.

This is just as true of overcoats,

stoves, and a long list of winter goods

that people buy early or do without.

What the buying public wants, at this season of the year, is information and prices. Every family is in the market for something in the way of reasonable goods. These prospective buyers are looking for a description of what they want with the price

attached, and they naturally look to the local merchant for this kind of information.

The secret of success of the mail order houses, is not cut prices, as many suppose. This class of houses get more for the same quality of goods

than local dealers would ask.

Why then do they get the trade?

Simply because they are on the spot

with information and prices 365 days

of the year.

The man who is looking for a stove

this fall, has not bought a stove for ten years, and has paid no attention to prices. He picks up a mail order

catalogue, finds a picture of a stove

with a price and buys, to find out later that he might have done as well or better in his home town.

Why didn't he patronize the home market? Because it failed to supply the information he was looking for.

If the merchants of any town will combine on a campaign of information,

they can drive out this kind of competition in a twelvemonth.

It isn't cut prices that sell the goods

at a season of the year when people are ready to buy, but simple, plain,

legitimate prices, and a plain brief

statement of facts concerning the goods.

The sacrifice sale is all right to clean up remnants of stock, at the close of the season, but the bulk of the stock can be sold at a profit if

information and prices are furnished

at the right time, and that time is now.

than local dealers would ask.

Why then do they get the trade?

Simply because they are on the spot

with information and prices 365 days

of the year.

IT PAYS TO GET YOUR EYES OPEN.

"Dr. Richards, what will you charge to crown this tooth for me?" said a party to the Dentist the other day. She was from a neighboring city and evidently had her eyes wide open on dental prices.

"$5," was the reply. "All right; go ahead and fix it," said she.

"They charge $10 in my town and here I can come to Janesville and have a whole day looking at the new fall styles in the stores, get my tooth fixed up and have enough money left to get me a new hat."

And she was right. If you choose Dr. Richards for your dentist you can save about HALF what you will have to pay if you go elsewhere.

Dr. Richards refuses to join a combine, an agreement or an understanding with other dentists which will establish or maintain high prices.

He does his work RIGHT.

He saves you PAIN.

His prices are REASONABLE.

FLORENCE DUGAN IS FREE WOMAN; INSANE WHEN SHE FIRED SHOTS

SUCH WAS THE VERDICT RETURNED BY THE JURY AT 11:40 THIS MORNING.

11 TO 1 ON FIRST BALLOT

Dying Schumaker Is Not to Taste the Sweetness of Revenge—Woman Only Smiled and Spoke No Word When Verdict Was Announced.

VERDICT OF THE JURY

State of Wisconsin,
In Municipal Court
For Rock County:
vs.
Florence Dugan, Defendant.

"We, the jury, find that the defendant was insane at the time of the commission of the alleged offense, and for that reason not guilty. We further find that the defendant has recovered from such insanity and is of sound mind at this time."

C. N. CLIFFORD, Foreman.

Dated October 12, 1907.

These were the findings of the twelve men—S. S. Purinton of the town of Union, M. H. Downing of Milton, Charles White of the town of Porter, H. T. Harper of Footville, Charles Clifford of Evansville, William Smith of Evansville, Seth Crall of the town of Center, Alex Paul of Milton Junction, William Miller of Afton, Edward James of the town of Beloit, Samuel Curtis of the city of Beloit, and W. E. Schumaker of the town of Janesville—returned to the court at 11:40 this morning. Judge Field asked the customary question and received the affirmative answer. Mr. Clifford then delivered the verdict into his hands of the court and after reading it, discharged the prisoner and thanked the jury for their consideration. Just the afternoon of a similar case, the face of the woman who has been a prisoner in the county jail since the night of April 18, but she spoke no word to those who pressed around her to offer their congratulations. This mother, however, thanked all who came forward. This little aftermath lasted but a few moments and before the stepladder struck twelve the court room was cleared of all who had been interested in any way in the unveiling of the world tragedy which had occupied the attention of the community for nearly a week.

Complete Victory for Defense

The jury left the courtroom at 9:45 and deliberated less than two hours. There were eleven affirmative votes on the question of insanity on the first ballot and it is said that during the next three ballots one person voted in the negative by agreement with his conference in order that the case might be duly considered. The verdict was reached on the fifth ballot.

The Judge's Charge

Judge Field, in his charge to the jury did not go into the evidence to any great extent and in his ruling of the law was fair and impartial to both sides. For the guidance of the jurors on the main question at issue, he said:

"Insanity which will relieve a person of responsibility for a criminal act, is such a perverted and deranged condition of the mental and moral faculties as to render the person incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong or conscious at the time of the nature of the act the person is committing—or otherwise and also such a condition that although the person may be conscious of the act and capable of distinguishing between right and wrong and knowing the act is wrong, yet his or her will—the governing power of the mind—has been completely destroyed by mental disease so that his or her actions are not subject to his or her control or to their will, but are the result of such disease, beyond his or her control."

Big Expense to the County

The case of George Schumaker and the prosecution of the defendant have been a big expense to the county. Months ago, in order to prevent the publicity of the trial and the expense incident to such a trial, District Attorney Fisher sought to persuade the defendant to plead guilty, assuring her that if she would do so he would recommend that the minimum sentence of one year in state's prison be measured out to her. He argued that a year in prison would be preferable to several months in jail and the narration of such unpleasant details as she would be called upon to tell on the witness stand, but, convinced perhaps that public sympathy was with her, she was resolved to take her chances and allow the whole affair to be threshed out. It is not probable that she will take any further responsibility for Schumaker and unless he is taken to the county poor farm, his relatives will have to bear the expense of his care.

Yesterday's Arguments

After Attorney T. S. Nolan had concluded his opening address to the jury, marshalling the testimony of his witnesses to show that the cruel treatment accorded Florence Dugan by George Schumaker finally drove her to madness, unbarring her mind to the extent that while she might have been able to distinguish between right and wrong, she had no longer possessed the power to control the will and choose her course of action. District Attorney J. L. Fisher took the floor and began the opening address for the state. It was not, he said, a question as to whether or not George Schumaker ruined the girl and took all her earnings for three or four years or whether or not the only clothes she had to wear were provided by her sisters. But emphasis had been laid on these alleged conditions by the defense in order to lay the foundation for a state of mind which might relieve the defendant of responsibility for her crime. He asked the jurors to go back to the beginning and examine her story to see if it was reasonable, probable and every-day sense. The testimony had shown that she had sufficient warning to put away decent, respectable woman on her guard against surrounding herself to a married man.

It had shown that long before the tragedy she had made up her mind to be revenged on George Schumaker for his life. Nothing had been produced to show that the process of her mind moved along grooves other than normal. Physicians who had made a study of insanity were unable to find in the evidence anything more than the mental processes and acts of a jealous and angered woman. One of her first remarks after the shooting was an inquiry as to what her punishment was likely to be, showing that she had not surrendered her mind to a single idea, regardless and oblivious of what might be the consequences of her deed.

Integrity of Law at Stake

At the conclusion of the district attorney's strong presentation of the case, E. S. District Attorney W. G. Wheeler addressed the jury and as he warmed to his argument he repeatedly turned on the veiled woman who sat with impassive face and austere eyes on the southern side of the court room. If his words burned and seared her conscience she gave no sign. New aspects of some of the testimony which his predecessor had reviewed were dwelt upon, particularly the acknowledged neglect of the woman alleged to have been wronged to follow up what were more than idle rumors regarding Schumaker's married state. The letters from Schumaker which had been read by the defendant's attorney contained no words of endearment or affection, not the slightest pretense either that the witness had intended to marry the woman or that their relations were built upon or sustained by anything resembling affection. "Was her inquiry as to the punishment that of an irrational person? If so, reason destroyed, must have suddenly returned. If we are going to excuse people who become violently angry because of real or fancied wrongs, then we may well denounce the heads of justice and go back to first principles, allowing every man to be his own judge. If she was insane mentally don't you suppose the people she was living with could furnish something to hang your hat on? Officer Brown for some reason or other got a flakey notion that she was crazy. But from the time of the shooting she was suddenly restored to her reason and the 'wild eye' was gone. If you are willing to return that verdict to society, that's your affair and not mine."

The Closing Plea

Attorney Nolan, in his closing plea drew a picture for the jury of a weak country girl meeting a man from the city and unable to resist his blandishments. After she learned that he was married, he only resorted under the circumstances, was to cling to him. It was well enough to say that the law should take its course, but when she learned that he was not going to keep this promise, what recourse was there for a woman who had surrendered everything? She might have sued him for money and the judgment would have been utterly worthless. Could she sue him for her virtue? The episode of the wine-room demonstrated to the speaker to what depths of degradation a man of Schumaker's character could drag a woman. If the woman had really been of such a character as the prosecution had tried to show, would not the people with whom she worked at Darius and Clinton have been brought here to testify?

"The test of insanity, he again maintained, was not the ability to discriminate between right and wrong but possession of the power to control the will. "We claim that she was impelled by a force she could not resist and that she was mentally irresponsible; that her undoing and the sudden knowledge that the man was going to desert her and marry another unaged her mind."

"In my opinion, George Schumaker got just what he deserved. God sometimes works in mysterious ways, gentlemen. When I saw that fresh-faced girl here on the witness stand yesterday, engaged to marry this man just three days before the shooting occurred, I wondered if she thought of the fate she had escaped. Perhaps she would have shot him and perhaps she would have suffered in silence. The law has no compensation for a woman who has suffered as Florence Dugan has. There was nothing left for her. She was desperate. God knows what thoughts were with her when she traveled from office to office trying to find some way to compel him to keep his promise and marry her. When you decide this question I want you to consider your daughters and the daughters of other men—whether they can be ruined under a promise to marry and end aside to spend the balance of their lives in shame."

"Most women suffer in silence. They realize that there is no greater disgrace than to be robbed of their virtue and have the whole world know it. But this woman could not do it. She was crazed and did not know what she was doing. I think that you will come to this conclusion and that you will so decide according to your conscience and the conscience of the community."

WHAT IS IT YOU LOOK FOR IN BUYING MONUMENTS?

When you go out to buy a monument you want high quality, best of workmanship and a low price. Geo. Brown, the monument dealer who has his shop and show rooms at 162 West Milwaukee street, sells monuments from 10 to 20 per cent lower than any other firm in the state and handles all the best grades of granite in the United States. Mr. Brown buys all of his granite in car lots direct from the quarries, not from dealers. All of the lettering is done by pneumatic tools by expert cutters, and is the best that can be produced. Special low prices will be made until Oct. 25th on all monuments now in stock at his Milwaukee street show rooms. A big and choice line of heavy markers will be sold at very low prices during this sale. If you are in the market for a monument call, write, phone or Mr. Brown will call on you if you so desire.

FLORENCE DUGAN, NOW A FREE WOMAN, TELLS OF HER IMPRISONMENT AND TRIAL

THANKS HELPING HANDS

Says She Feels As Though She Had Entered A New Life and Is Going To Live Differently.

With nothing but an effusion of thanks for the people who helped her in her troubles, which came to a close with the verdict of the jury at noon today, Florence Dugan smiles today as she rehearses the incidents of her imprisonment and trial. As much as the difference between her attitude today and her stolid pose while on the witness stand as between a statue and the artist's living model. After a long imprisonment of six months with a dramatic climax of the trial, which was consummated today in her favor, she seems to be a new woman, as she herself confesses she feels. She has evil wishes toward none but her compassion goes out to all who were against her, even to Geo. Schumaker in whom she leveled her weapon. If she could, she declares, she would do anything in her power to assist in the recovery to health of the man whom she once loved but later hated. Despite the long, sleep in jail she has suffered practically no physical breakdown. Though at times she has been on the verge of a nervous collapse till today, with her mind free of the dreaded possibility and that might have been against her, she feels as well as she did before the beginning of her trouble. Overcome with unbounded happiness she realizes that she is a free woman and at will to go where she pleases. In this happy mood she told the following story this afternoon when seen at the county jail where she is now engaged by Mrs. Fisher to assist in housework.

"I first wish to thank the numerous friends who have stood by me all through this trouble. Especially do I wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. James Hemmings, Phil Shegdon and Attorney T. S. Nolan, who so ably defended

We warn the man or woman who has a comfortable account in the bank against drawing that money for questionable investment enterprises. The majority of people are not able to judge every offer of promoters. When you buy stocks or other securities from a stranger you are running a risk and besides you are paying a price that means good profit to the seller. Good bargains don't go begging. On the other hand, your money in a sound bank is also safely drawn, at a stated and reasonable amount of interest, and you may add small or large sums from time to time or withdraw any part whenever necessary. me. I want to express my gratitude to Sheriff and Mrs. Fisher and Mr. George Appleby who treated me so kindly while I was imprisoned here at the jail.

"During my imprisonment and trial I had fears of the end at times and then again I felt confident that I would be freed. Some days while in jail I thought that I would never be free again, possibly, and on other days I was more confident that I would win. The most nervous moment during all the trouble that I spent was when I saw the jury coming from their room after they had decided on their verdict. The reason was, I guess, because I knew that in only a few seconds I would know the end.

"While I was on the witness stand, during most of the first day of the trial I was almost frightened to death. I did not feel a bit when on the stand. I felt worse in the forenoon but in the afternoon I felt more at ease. But after the first day I knew that Mr. Nolan was more confident and that gave me hope. I was uneasy during the trial because there had been so many delays and I thought that probably there would be a disagreement among the jury and another trial would have to be held. All during the trial I don't think I slept more than three hours until last night when I felt more sure that I would be freed. Last night I slept pretty well. I had a better appetite today at noon than I have had for six months.

"I expect to visit my folks, who live in the town of Bradford, and other relatives for a week or so. I am going to work here for Mrs. Fisher a while at least.

"If there is anything I could do right this minute to help George get well, I would do it. I hope he gets well. What witnesses I thought told falsehoods on the stand to hurt me I can forgive. I feel as though I was entering a new life today and I am going to live different from now on."

ROOSEVELT CAMP NOW ABANDONED

PRESIDENT LEAVES BECAUSE HE FINDS NO BEAR THERE.

NEW LOCATION SELECTED

Hunt Will Be Resumed in the Neighborhood of Newellton, on the Lower Tensas
Bayou.

Stamboul, La., Oct. 12.—Roosevelt camp at the Monticello crossing of the Bayou Tensas has passed into history.
The president left the place at six o'clock Friday morning and when he turned his back on the camp it was with a determination not to return again.

He headed towards Bear lake, whence on Sunday he will remove to another camp which will be pitched near Newellton, in Tensas parish, on a branch of the Iron Mountain railroad.

The decision to change camp was arrived at Thursday and preparations were immediately begun for the movement. Mr. Parker was dispatched to Stamboul to make arrangements for a train from that point to Newellton and H. Jackson, one of the colored bear hunters, was sent in with instructions to proceed to Newellton and select a proper place for the new encampment.

The change of location was decided upon not only because no bear had been killed, but because the president and his friends became convinced that there were none, or practically none, on the upper Tensas.

Bears Near Newellton.

The reports from Newellton are encouraging. Ever since the president arrived in this section he has been receiving letters telling him that there were plenty of bears within a few miles of that town and, when Mr.
Parker came into the railroad station Friday he secured confirmation of these statements over the long distance telephone. The failure of the present hunt causes him to regard these promises with some degree of doubt, but he and the president as well have decided that the only way to settle the matter definitely is to make personal investigation.

The new camp will be on Hayou Tensas, as was the other, but 40 miles south of the present site, and it will be about 12 miles inland from the railroad.

Will Take Four Hunters.

Only Ben Lilly, Holt Collier and
the Metcalfe brothers, of the professional hunters, will be taken with Jack Powell, the colored cook, will also be attached to the new camp.
Most of the horses and dogs and some of the tents will likewise be removed.
The transfer will be made on a special train consisting of a Pullman, a baggage car and a live stock car. The president will not come in until Sunday, but he hopes to get away by ten or 11 o'clock of that day and to reach the camp in time to go to the new location before night and thus be prepared to resume the hunt early Monday morning.

Friday was devoted to searching the woods between the railroad and Hayou Tensas for wild cats and a messenger who came in early reported that the dogs had already struck a promising trail. The president spent the night in an old clubhouse on Bear lake, 12 miles south of Monticello road. He will hunt in that neighborhood Saturday and remain at the clubhouse Saturday night and take the road early Sunday for this point.

Brokers' Manager Is Arrested.

New York, Oct. 12.—Arrested on the grand larceny charge of having misappropriated $2,750, George H.
Broder, 53 years old, said to be manager for the brokerage firm of James H. Ophiant & Co., was held Friday in $20,000 bail. In the indictment, arrest and arraignment of the prisoner the utmost secrecy was maintained. The high bail, Judge Crane said, was required at the request of the district attorney.

MINES SALTED; SWINDLE EXPOSED

SENSATIONAL FRAUD DISCOV-ERED NEAR LENDER, WYO.

INVESTORS NOT TO LOSE

Thomas L. and J. F. Greenough, Prime Movers in Organization, Will Redeem All Stock at Price Paid.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 12.—The Record
publishes a story to the effect that numerous Montana and Washington investors have been misled to the extent of more than a third of a million dollars through the discovery that certain placer mines near Lender, Wyo., had been salted and that the property in question is worthless.

Thomas L. Greenough of Missoula
and J. F. Greenough of Spokane, who were the prime movers in the organization, have notified all investors that they will redeem all stock at the price paid, thus assuring the loss.

Found to Be Worthless.

The discovery that the property was salted was due to an independent examination conducted by Senator D.
W. King of the Montana legislature, and J. R. Neill of Spokane, heavy prospective investors, who found, after removing a few inches of the shaft
walls, that the ground was valueless,
as were the tailings, although all previous experiments showed values ranging from 20 cents to nine dollars
a yard.

Chicagoans' Big Offer.

A Chicago firm was so impressed with the future of the property that it offered the Greenoughs $2,500,000 for their interest, but the offer was rejected.

Water not being available, work had been started from either end on a tunnel through a mountain so the flow of the Popoagie river might be utilized. The discovery has created the biggest sensation in the history of northwest mining.

Says Loss Will Be $200,000.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 12.—I. T. Hoxey
of Phoenix, Ariz., one of the principal owners of the Wyalitine placer mines referred to in the Helena (Mont.) dispatch, in a statement made here Friday night said that the loss to be sustained following the discovery that the holdings had been salted would approximate $200,000. This amount, he said, would be shared by Thomas L. Greenough of Missoula
and W. D. and J. B. Greenough, with himself and J. H. Howard of Phoenix, Ariz.

Hoxey declared that four well-known experts had examined the property and that each of their reports was flattering, showing that the mines would run from $1.04 to $1.45 per yard. After a personal investigation just made, he is satisfied the property will not run more than two cents a yard.

BALLOON RACERS FEAR THE LAKES

SAILORS ASKED TO KEEP WATCH FOR THE CONTESTANTS.

WILL TRAVEL THAT WAY

Aeronauts Entered in James Gordon
Bennet Race from St. Louis
All Arrive in United States.

New York, Oct. 12.—All of the European aeronauts, who are to compete in the James Gordon Bennett cup race, to start from St. Louis October 21, are now in this country, excepting the two French contestants, who will arrive on the Touraine Saturday.

Griffith Brewer and Lieut. Claud Brabazon, representing the Aero Club
of Great Britain, came in on the Lancastria Friday. Together with Alan R.
Hawley and J. C. McCoy, two of the cup defenders, the Englishmen will start for St. Louis Saturday afternoon, all of the balloons now being on the ground. The German representatives left New York Thursday.

Afraid of the Lakes.

Fear of dropping into the great lakes is the chief concern of the aerial racers at the present time, and Friday night officers of the Aero Club of America made the request that all newspapers throughout the lake region print a general notice to mariners to be on the lookout for the balloons.

For 24 hours after the start of the race, at 3:30 on the afternoon of October 21, those sailing on the lakes are requested to keep a sharp watch
in all directions, especially at night.
The prevailing wind at St. Louis at this time of the year is from the southwest, and that will carry the balloons toward the lakes. Lake Michigan and Superior are especially feared as they will probably be more directly in the track of the racers than
the lakes further east.

Plenty of Boats to Rescue Them.

Should a balloon sail out over one of these bodies of water with sand ballast exhausted, and without wind
enough to carry it to the other side,
the aeronaut would be almost certain of drowning unless he was seen and rescued by some craft. One of the reasons for selecting this time of the year is that the lakes just now swarm with commerce toward the close of navigation, and this, together with a full moon, renders the water less perilous than at any other season.

It is not likely that any of the bal- loons will remain in the air longer than 40 hours and it is expected, if favored with a good wind, that they will all be down within 24 hours.

Prof. Bell's Experiments.

Buddick, C. B., Oct. 12.—Regarding the aerial navigation experiments being conducted here, Prof. Alexander Graham Bell Friday made the following statement:

"We are nearly ready to put a large
machine into the air, and it is possible that within the next week or so we may fly the machine as a kite, with a sail bag in it of the weight of a man.
If the experiment is successful, we shall place a man in the machine without a motor and allow him to glide
down to the water from an elevation.
I do not think it would be safe to start at once to put a man into the air in a motor-driven machine, but think it wiser to begin by raising him into the air in the machine blown as a kite and towed by motor."

Prof. Bell's experiments are now being conducted under the auspices of the recently-established Aerial Experimenting association.

OPERATORS ARE GOING BACK.

Many Applying for Old Jobs, Bay
Western Union Officials.

New York, Oct. 12.—Officials of the Western Union Telegraph company stated Friday that their force had been largely augmented within recent days by personal applications of strikers to return to their work, and that a large number had been taken back in various parts of the country.

The applications are being considered on their individual merits, and quite a number have not been favorably acted upon. As a result of this movement it is said that the desirable places are rapidly being filled and that comparatively few vacancies remain. The report circulated Friday, that Col. Clowry, resident and general manager of the Western Union, resigned, was authoritatively denied.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 12.—Joseph Powers, a Burlington (Iowa) telegraph operator at Waldron, Mo., has been arrested with interfering with commercial messages and train dispatching. The officers expect to make further arrests.
The operator, it is charged, sought to harass Western Union and Associated Press operators who took strikers' places.

Sailors Scalded to Death.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The proprietary City of Naples of the Gilechrist fleet came into port Friday night with two of her crew dead and one of her officers badly scalded by the bursting of a steam pipe.

Dutch Massacred in Celebes.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 12.—Mail advices from Batavia report the ambascade and massacre of two companies of Dutch troops by natives in Celebes.

Long Life of Work.

Indian elephants over 12 and up to 45 years of age are deemed the best to purchase; they will generally work well until they are 80 years old.

Seven Years After.
A married man sat in a roof garden,
looking up at the starry sky dreamily.
"Why are you so sad?" "I'll tell you,"
he replied. "This morning I went into my wife's room in her absence, and on a desk lay a packet of my love letters—old letters that I had written to her before we were married—seven years ago." He smiled, sighed, shook his head. "Foolishly," he said, "I read those letters. I read all of them.
Every word, every word." He gazed at the stars that glittered above him
and at the lights of the city glittering below.

Cause of Napoleon's Fall.

There is no doubt Napoleon fell through the sheer dizziness of the height he had climbed to. "The Duc de Raguse," says Comtesse de Stoliga, "once explained to me the nature of his connection with the emperor in a phrase which is more or less applicable to the whole nation. 'When Napoleon said, "All for France," I served with enthusiasm. When he said:
"France and I," I served with zeal.
When he said, "I and France," I served with obedience. When he said
"I" without France, I felt the necessity of parting from him."

Do not positively think that Dr. Miles'
Anti-Pain Pills are the best medicine

them so useful and soothing, and without any bad after-effects, I have suffered with neuralgia so that my system would just choke and quiver, and I cannot take opiate; but I can take these tablets, and they always relieve me. No one that suffers with neuralgia need fear to take them as I know they will not form a habit, for it takes many opiate in them I could not take them. Just one in the morn-

ATTORNEY GENERAL IS CITED.

Young of Minnesota May Be Punished
for Contempt of Court.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 12.—Edward T.
Young, attorney general of Minnesota,
was served with an order Friday issued by Federal Judge Lockron to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. The alleged contempt consisted of mandatory proceedings brought in the district court of Ramsey county to compel the railroads to comply with the commodity rate law passed by the last legislature, the enforcement of which has been temporarily enjoined by the federal court.

The order is returnable October 21.
If Judge Lockron then imposes punishment on Attorney General Young for contempt, the latter will appeal to the United States supreme court on habeas corpus proceedings, thus bringing the Minnesota rate controversy directly before the court of last resort.

its commanding superiority over all other American beers not only approve of it for their own table, but heartily recommend it to poorly nourished and convalescing patients. The testimony of the World's greatest physicians prove that beer is undoubtedly healthy—for example we print the following:

DR. WILLIS P. KING, of Kansas City, formerly President of the Missouri State Medical Society, speaks of beer as follows:

"Beer to persons of moderate health, where used in moderate quantities, does not only increase weight and strength of body, but has the influence of aiding the digestive apparatus to digest other things taken as food. For nearly 40 years I have prescribed our best beers, ordering three to four glasses a day, in a great variety of ailments and the RESULTS have been wonderfully beneficial.

BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period.

H. NELSON'S

Corner W. Milwaukee and Jackson Sts.,

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicine greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and anodyne. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry Bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherry bark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will cure chronic coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Emily Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves as an excellent purgative. Holding a large quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrh of the stomach. It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pruritus (itching) and excessive catarrh (inflammation) of the skin."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood, turning out impurities, cures skin eruptions, eczema and all skin diseases. Send to Dr. H. C. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about this medicine. There is no equal to it.

Law and Licking.

In some of the districts of Prussia no father can dust the jacket of his boy without first securing the consent of an official appointed for the purpose. If the boy refuses to mind, the father goes to the officer and says: "My boy Fritz needs a licking. He will not mind me." How old is your Fritz? "He is 12." "Is he very obstinate?" "He is like a mule." "Then here is your permission to go home and take him by the collar and give him 15 good cuts across the back." And the father goes home and cuts a gal and Fritz gets his thrashing and is better behaved for the next three months.

Wanted the Worth of His Money.

"All we can afford to give you, miss," said the trustee of school district No. 16 to the young woman who had applied for the position of teacher, "is $15 a month." "At that figure, of course, you wouldn't expect me to teach any facts," she said. "Facts," echoed the trustee, taken slightly aback; "why—h'm—yes, if you can teach it well want that, too." "But if it isn't in the curriculum—" "You may as well understand, miss, that we ain't throwin' any money away. The $15 a month is to pay for the whole thing—fads, erudition and everything else that's going." —Chicago Tribune.

Dream That Came True.

During a dinner to welcome him, a young man at Hostivar, near Prague, told of a dream he had that a shot was fired in the house. His father rose, as a precaution, to remove a pistol from the wall, but as he touched it it went off and killed the girl.

The Opal Serpent

By FERGUS HUME,

Author "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," "The Mandarin's Fan," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY E. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

"How old was the child?" "Maud? Oh, you might say she was thirteen or fifteen. I can't be sure of her age. What's up?"

For Hurd, seeing in this admission a confirmation that Maud was not Krill's child and could not inherit the money, had showed his feelings. However, he made some trivial excuse, not wishing to be too confidential, and begged Jessop to proceed.

"Well, mate," said the captain, dilling another glass of rum, "you see the lady had come earlier and had been put to bed by the nurse. I never saw her myself, being drinking in this very room along of Krill. But he saw her," added Jessop emphatically, "and said as she'd a fine opal brooch, which he said he'd had, as he wanted money and the nurse kept him tight."

"Krill was a judge of jewels?" "Travelled in Jewels once," said the captain. "Bless you, he could size up a precious stone in no time. But he sat drinking with me, and every now and then got out of the room, when he'd stave away for perhaps a quarter of an hour at the time."

"Did he mention the opal brooch again?"

"No," said Jessop, after reflection, "he didn't. But he got so drunk that he began to show fight, as he always did when boozed, though a timid chap when sober. I concluded, wishing no row, to get to my hammock, and cut upstairs. Then I went by mistake into the room of that poor lady, carrying a candle, and saw her tied to the bedpost stone dead, with a silk handkerchief round her neck. I shouted out blue murder, and Mrs. Krill, with the kid, came tumbling down. I was so scared," added Jessop, wiping his forehead at the recollection, "that I ran out of doors."

"What good would that do?" "Lor, I dunno," confessed the man, shivering. "But I was scared out of my life. It was rainin' pitchforks, as you'd say, and I raced on through the rain for an hour or so. Then I thought, as I was innocent, I'd make tracks back, and I did. I found Krill had cut."

"Did his wife tell you?"

"Oh, she was lying on the floor in a terrible way. She'd knocked her head. And the kid—lor," Jessop spat, "she was lying in the corner with her lips fastened together with the brooch."

"What?" cried Hurd, starting to his feet. "The same as her—the same as Norman's wife?" Jessop nodded and drank some rum. "Made me sick, it did. I took the brooch away and slipped it into my pocket. Then the kid said her father had fastened her lips together and had knocked her mother flat when she interfered. I brought Mrs. Krill round and then left her with the kid, and walked off to Southampton. The police found me there, and I told them what I tell you."

"Did you tell about the brooch?" "Well, no, I didn't," confessed Jessop coolly, "and as the kid and the mother said nothing, I didn't see why

I shouldn't keep 't, wantin' money. So I went to Stowley and pawned it, then took a deep sea voyage for a year. When I come back, all was over."

"Do you think Krill murdered the woman?" asked Hurd, pausing over for the moment the fact that Jessop had stolen the brooch.

"He said he didn't," rejoined the man with emphasis, "but I truly believe, mister, as he did, one of them times when mad with drink and out of the room. He wanted the brooch, d'ye see, though why he should have lost the lot by sellin' the kid's mouth with it I can't say."

"When did you come across Krill again?"

"No," said Jessop, drawing his hand across his mouth. "I was this way, d'ye see. I came round here late, and a swell come, too, a cold."

"Grexon Hay," said Hurd, pointing to the photograph.

"Yes, that's him," said Jessop, staring. "And I hated him just, with his eyes and his sneerin' ways. He loved the kid, now a growned, fine gal, as you know, and come here often. In June—at the end of it anyhow—he comes and I hear him tells Mrs. Krill, who was always looking for her husband, that a one-eyed bookseller in Gwynne street, Drury lane, had fainted when he saw the very identical brooch showed him by another cove."

"Deecot. I know. Didn't you wonder how the brooch had left the pawnshop?" asked Hurd, very attentive.

"No, I didn't," snarled Jessop, who was growing cross. "I knew old Thinker's assistant had sold the brooch and he didn't oughter 't have done it, as I wanted it back. Mrs. Krill asked me about the brooch and wanted it, so I said I'd get it back. Thinker said it was gone, but wrote to the gent as bought it."

"Mr. Simon Beecot of Wargrove, in Essex?"

"That was him; but the gent wouldn't give it back, so I s'pose he'd given it to his son. Well, then, when Mrs. Krill heard of the one-eyed man fainting at the sight of the brooch she knew 'twas her husband, as he'd one eye, she having knocked the other out when he was sober."

"Did she go up and see him?"

"Well," said Jessop slowly, "I don't rightly know what she did do, but she went up. I don't think she saw Krill at his shop, but she might have seen that Push, who was Mr. Hay's lawyer, and a dirty little ape o' sorts he is."

"Ha," said Hurd to himself, "I thought Push knew about the woman beforehand. No wonder he stuck to them and gave poor Miss Norman the go-by. He rubbed his hands and chuckled. 'Well, we'll see what will come of the matter. Go on, Jessop.'"

"There ain't much more to tell," grumbled the captain. "I heard of this, and I wasn't meant to hear. But I thought I'd go up and see if I could get money out of Krill by saying I'd tell about the murder of Lady Rachel."

"You are a scoundrel," said Hurd coolly.

"I was 'ard up," apologized the captain, "or I wouldn't, not me. I'm straight enough when in cash. So I went up in July."

"On the 6th of July?" "If that was the day of the murder, yes. I went up and loafed round until it was dark and then slipped through that side passage at 8 o'clock to see Krill."

"How did you know where to find him?"

"Why, that Hay knew about the chip and said as he'd business in a cellar after 8. So Krill let me in, thinkin' I s'pose, I was a customer. He'd been drinking a little and was bold enough. But when I said as I'd say he'd killed Lady Rachel he swore he was an innocent babe and cried, the drink 't'ing out of him."

"The same as it did out of you lately," said Hurd, smiling.

"Go slow," granted the captain in a sorry tone. "I ain't afraid now, as I ain't done nothing. I said to Krill I'd say nothing if he'd give me money. He wouldn't, but he'd placed a lot of pawned things with Push, and I could have them. He then gave me a paper saying I was to have the things, and I went to Push the next morning and had trouble. But I heard by chance," again Jessop cast a strange look at Hurd, "that Krill had been murdered, so I didn't wait for the lawyer to come back, but cut down to Southampton and went on a short voyage. Then I come here, and you nabbed me," and Jessop finished his rum. "That's all I know."

"Do you swear you left Aaron Norman alive?"

"Meaning Krill? I do. He wasn't no use to me dead, and I made him give me the Jewels Push had, d'ye see."

"That you warned you of the death when you were waiting?"

Jessop seemed unwilling to speak, but when pressed burst out, "Twas a mean little kid with ragged clothes and a dirty face."

"Twas," said Hurd. "Hum! I wonder how he know of the murder before it got into the papers?"

CHAPTER XXI.

HURD'S sister was a clever young woman who in her time had played many parts. She began her career along with Hurd as a private detective, but when her brother joined the official service Miss Hurd thought she would better her position by appearing on the stage and therefore took the rather queer name of Aurora Qian. In her detective capacity she had often disguised herself when employed in obtaining evidence and was remarkably talented in changing her face and figure. This art she used with great success in her own profession and speedily made her mark as an impersonator of various characters out of novels. As Becky Sharp, as Little Dorrit, she was said to be intangible, and after playing under several managements she started, in the phrase of the profession, "a show of her own" and rapidly made money.

But her great faults, among others, were vanity and extravagance, so she was always in need of money, and when chance offered, through her brother, to make any she was not averse to returning to the spy business. Thus it came about that she watched Mr. Grexon Hay for many a long day and night, and he never suspected the pretty, fluffy, kittenish Miss Qian was in reality an emissary of the law. Consequently when Aurora asked him to a card party at her rooms Hay accepted readily enough, although he was not in need of money at the time.

Miss Qian occupied a tiny flat on the top of a huge pile of buildings in Kensington, and it was furnished in a glum way, with more show than real value and with more color than taste.

Like the Becky Sharp whom she impersonated with such success, Miss Qian possessed a chaperon, not because she needed one, being very well able to look after herself, but because it sounded and looked respectable. Miss Stubby, who filled this necessary office, was a dull old lady who dressed excessively badly and devoted her life to knitting shawls. She talked very little.

This sort of person exactly suited Miss Qian, who wanted a sheep dog who could neither bark nor bite and who could be silent. These qualifications were possessed by the old lady, and for some years she had trailed through a rather ghidly world at Aurora's heels. In her own dull way she was fond of the young woman, but was far from suspecting that Aurora was connected in an underhand manner with the law.

This was the old lady who sat in the pink drawing room to play property for Miss Qian. Lord George Sandil was present, looking rather washed out, but as gentlemanly as ever. Hay, with his fixed eyes and eternally cold smile, was there, and a third young man, who adored Miss Qian, thinking her to be merely an actress, slumped across the card table at his goddess. The four were playing a game which involved the guilting and losing of much money, and they had been engaged for about an hour. Miss Stubby, having eaten a good dinner and commenced a new shawl, was half dozing in the corner and paying absolutely no attention to the players.

"It's a good thing we're hanging on our own books in this game," said Miss Qian. "Were I your partner, Sandil, I should always address my friends in this free and easy fashion—" "I'd be losing money. What luck you have!" "I never do seem to win," lamented Lord George. "Whenever I think I've got a good hand, the thing pans out wrong."

"Hay has got all the money," said the slumping admirer who answered to the name of Tempest. "He and you, Miss Qian, are the winners."

"I've made very little," she replied.

"I'm taking in the dollars hand over fist."

"Lucky in love, unlucky at cards," said Hay, who did not like his good fortune to be commented upon for reasons which Miss Qian knew. "It's the reverse with me—I'm lucky at cards."

HIGHEST PRAISE.

Some Janesville Citizens Grow Enthusiastic on the Subject.

The praise of the public is merit's just reward. Nothing in modern times has received the praise accorded "The Little Conqueror."

Of some kinds of praise we are skeptical. We doubt the praise of strangers. The highest praise for Janesville people is hearty expression from Janesville people.

Don's Kidney Pills are indorsed in Janesville.

No better proof of merit can be had. Here's a case of it. We have plenty more like it.

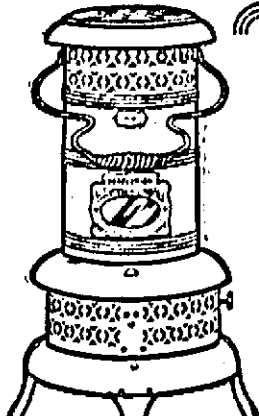

Mrs. B. F. Jones, of 167 Western Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was not free from attacks of backache for a single day during several years past. I used so many remedies without getting any relief that I came to the conclusion that nothing would help me and stopped trying. I went about all bent over, could not straighten up at all and had a dull pain across the joints and a feeling of weakness that made it hard for me even to rise from a chair. At night I would awaken, with the feeling that a great weight was breaking my back, and anyone who has suffered from kidney trouble will know what torture I endured. Finally I saw Don's Kidney Pills advertised and wondered if there was really any use of trying another remedy, but seeing them recommended by people in Janesville I procured a box at the People's Drug Co. and began using them. Gradually I regained strength and the pains and aches finally disappeared. Since I have discontinued their use I have not had an attack of backache nor any symptom of kidney trouble, and I believe Don's Kidney Pills worthy of all the praise that I can give them."

This Snappy Weather Makes One Think Of WINTER COATS

In the past two weeks we have received more than two hundred and fifty Ladies' Coats. "NEWNESS" is the key-note of our splendid display, "newness" in style, "newness" in variety.

Japanese features—especially in the sleeve effects—are being shown very extensively with a number of new and pleasing adaptations and variations.

The new sleeve demands particular notice. The full draped wing sleeve seems to have won general favor, without, however, displacing other equally attractive models of sleeves.

The SEPARATE COAT comprises a number of different styles.

Long loose fitting coats, long tight back coats, semi-fitted and form-fitted garments are made up in such handsome models, that it would be difficult in whose favor to decide.

We start the price at $10.00 for an all-wool, full lined garment; extra values at $12, $15, $18, $20, $25, $30 and $35. Nearly all of our coats are full satin lined and 50 to 54 inches long.

FUR FABRIC COATS

IN PONYSKIN, PERSIAN LAMB AND CARCAUL EFFECTS have been so perfected that they will largely take the place of the real fur coat. They are really capable of more style development than coats made of animal skins. Prices $12, $15, $20, $25 and $30.

Notwithstanding the great advance in nearly all kinds of goods, we are positively offering coats twenty-five per cent better values for the money than we could last season.

We will absolutely save you money on your Winter Coat and give you the correct style.

Bacon Makes Heroic Rescue.

Doston, Oct. 12.—Assistant Secretary of State Robert L. Bacon figured in a heroic rescue on the Charles river late Friday, when he jumped overboard from the Harvard launch Veritas and swam to the rescue of two boys who had capsized in a canoe, and succeeded in saving the life of one. The second boy was rescued by J. R. Reed, a student of Harvard, who followed Bacon into the water.

Will Continue Colonist Rates.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 12.—The Union Pacific and Southern Pacific lines, in connection with C. & W., C. M. & St. P. and other trans-continental lines have given notice that they will continue colonist rates during the months of March and April, 1908, and on the same basis as the rates which were in effect during March and April and September and October, 1907.

Price of Oil for Export Raised.

New York, Oct. 12.—The price of refined petroleum for export, which has been $8.45 a barrel, was raised 30 cents in New York by the Standard Oil company Friday. No announcement was made as to the reason for the increase, although the greater cost of barrels was suggested as a possible cause.

Rehearsal Before Performance.
